Phonelink security Privacy Policy

At Clare Alarms, we take your privacy seriously. It is important that you know exactly what we do with personal information that you and others provide to us, why we gather it and what it means to you.

This document is being provided to you in line with our obligations under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), which will come into force on 25 May 2018. From that date, the GDPR, together with applicable Irish requirements, will amend existing data protection law and place enhanced accountability and transparency obligations on organizations when using your information. The GDPR will also introduce changes which will give you greater control over your personal information, including a right to object to processing of your personal information where that processing is carried out for our business purposes.

This document is a summary of our full Data Protection Policy. Please take time to read this notice carefully and ensure you understand it. The full text of the GDPR can be found here.

Your data – the information we collect about you

The typical data we collect is information you've provided to us while signing up to our products and services. This includes data used to identify you, including your contact information and limited financial details used to process payment for services provided.

How we use your data

We comply with GDPR legislation and only utilize and share your personal data in strict adherence with its laws and principals. We use and share your data only where it is necessary in relation to a service or contract that you have entered into, such as Intruder or CCTV monitoring.
